The Quarterback Ranch partners with HEB ISD to provide off-season football skills training for junior high athletes seeking to enhance their abilities as quarterbacks, receivers, and running backs. This non-contact training is designed to provide fundamental skills development and enhancement, using the same offensive schemes and terminology used at the varsity level. Focus is on proper footwork, mechanics, stance and start, route running, offensive terminology, reads, and much more. Each session begins with a dynamic warmup, following by specific position footwork and hand drills, and ending with routes on air involving all positions. The training is upbeat and fun but design to produce specific improvement over the 7 sessions. Additional and more advanced training will be provided during the summer.

ABOUT US

While we cut our teeth on helping quarterbacks reach the elite level, our specialty at The Quarterback Ranch is football skills training. In addition to quarterbacks, we provide individualized training and camps for receivers, running backs, and defensive backs. While many quarterback camps make “room” for quarterbacks to bring their own receivers, we provide primary instruction for these other positions with some of the best coaches and instructors who have played and coached their respective positions at the highest levels of collegiate and professional football. QB Ranch focuses on training beginning at the 5th grade through college and professional. All of our instructors have played and/or coached the game at the high school, college, and professional levels.
